

Welburn Village Hall electrical equipment declaration.

Reason for this declaration

Welburn village hall insurance requires that all electrical equipment is in safe condition and should be PAT tested. However, sometimes PAT testing is not appropriate (e.g. when the equipment is double insulated) or the user may consider it unnecessary (e.g. if the equipment is new). Where PAT testing has not been carried out, the user must take responsibility for any incidents that may arise, as the village hall insurance will not cover any incidents caused by third party electrical equipment.

Please tick one of the following statements, which is most applicable.

1) For events where the signatory is the hirer

As the hirer of Welburn Village Hall, I can confirm that all the electrical equipment which will be used for the event I am responsible for, is in good condition and has been PAT tested. []

OR (if not PAT tested) As the hirer of Welburn Village Hall, I can confirm that all the electrical equipment which will be used for the event I am responsible for is in good condition. I will take full financial responsibility for any incidents arising from its failure. []

2) For events where the signatory is not the hirer

I can confirm that all the electrical equipment I/we have brought to be used in Welburn Village Hall is in good condition and has been PAT tested []

OR (if not PAT tested) I can confirm that all the electrical equipment I have brought to be used in Welburn Village Hall is in good condition and I will take full financial responsibility for any incidents arising from its failure. []
